

The Clever Camouflaging Caterpillar

Wavy-lined Emerald Moth

(Synchlora aerate)

Donna M Hughes

© Donna M Hughes, iNaturalist, some rights reserved (CC-BY-NC)

Camo Caterpillar

Though green to blend in with leaves in adulthood, the larval stage is even more impressive.

The larvae stack plant fragments, usually flower petals, to disguise themselves as they feed.

© Brad Walker, iNaturalist, some rights reserved (CC-BY-NC)